Trustpilot

The layout of Trustpilot is reminiscent of that of all other sources. It looks like this:

It has the same hierarchical structure of the posts and replies, as in the original TrustPilot interface.

Additionally, the layout has the standard elements as all other Sources:

1. Header – This is the top section, which contains the name of the source

2. Messages section – this is the main/middle section, where all messages are shown. This is also where a reply, once sent, will be shown.

3. Reply section – this section, in the current version, is identical to all other Sources and is a text area, where one can enter a text reply to a given review from TrustPilot.

In addition to the layout above, the "Open in Trustpilot" link opens the message in the original Trustpilot interface:
