

Publish

Publishing the changes is a two step process :

- Save the new configuration set
- Publish the configuration set

Save the configuration set

All the changes made, for example : banners created, updated an opportunity, new canned responses created etc , all are listed under Publish -> Configuration. The already published versions appear on the top and changes yet to be saved will be listed below. You can select all the changes listed or a subset of them you wish to publish and click on the Create button.

Warning

This list contains changes made by all users in the account. Please make sure you only select the changes made by yourself or have been authorised to publish others.

Note

Creating the configuration set will not automatically publish the changes on your website. You will have to publish the configuration as explained in the next section.

Publishing the configuration set

To publish the latest changes from the configuration set, go to Publish -> Publish. Here you will see the current version that is live and the newest version you want to publish. All the changes or difference between the live version and the latest are listed below. If you are happy with the changes, scroll down to the bottom of the list and click on Publish button.
